Crystal Reports 10.5.3700.0 Free Download Crystal Reports is a database software designed for business professionals to design, create, and share reports with their colleagues. Crystal Reports offers you the option of viewing reports on-the-fly or offloading your report needs onto the server so that you never have to leave your computer again! Crystal Reports comes in 2 flavors: Professional Edition which costs $3,900 annually, and Premium Edition which costs $8,900 annually for companies with over 1,000 users that don't offer software maintenance contracts of at least 5 years. Crystal Reports Professional Edition is available to both Standard and Enterprise users. The Premium Edition adds the ability to distribute reports via the internet or intranet, send report creation tasks to other computers, create reports with automated macros, include rich text in reports, make the Reports Server the default print server for files saved to your computer, and edit files without quitting Report Builder. Crystal Reports also includes support for most web browsers. Reports created using Crystal Reports can be used by multiple users at one time without security restrictions or limitations. Since 2003, Microsoft has supported MS Access/MS SQL connectivity between their MS Word and MS Excel products (2002-2003 support was limited to Microsoft FrontPage/Microsoft HTML Designer). Reports created using Crystal Reports can be published to the World Wide Web and viewed by any user connected to the internet. A free demo version of Crystal Reports is also available for download.

Once you open Crystal Reports, an introduction screen is displayed. This screen consists of a series of tabs that contain helpful tips and suggestions related to using different parts of the program. These tabs are: The default tab (also known as the "login tab") shows system wide information such as user name and password, network status, and license number among other things. The login tab also contains a drop down menu labeled "Log On" which lists all users currently logged on to your instance of Crystal Reports Server. The "Report Builder" tab shows all of the reports the current user has the ability to create. By default, users have access to a few sample reports in addition to a "My Reports" folder that contains any reports previously created by the designated user. The Report Builder also contains a "Report Scripts" folder which is a collection of report definitions that have been saved through Crystal Reports in an HTML format. The word "Schedule" is not currently used when describing the button titled "Schedule...". This button is located at the far left of each report in Report Builder and can be used to schedule when this report should run, or to add additional parameters such as date or time when it should run. The button titled "Save As" is used to send a report to the Crystal Reports Server and allows you to save a copy of the report for later use. The "Help" tab contains help information and links to other places on the Internet where you can get more detailed instructions and help on using Crystal Reports.

Information and instructions about the different parts of the program can be found in several places online. These include:
